DE LA BARRA DOES NOT STOP
FOR CONFERENCE WITH MA-
DERO OR ANY REVOLU-
TIONIST.

WAIT INSURGENTS' WORD

Meanwhile the Rebels Are Muzzling
Their Forces Preparing For Some
New Move Upon the Federal Forces.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
San Antonio, Texas, March 30.—The
new Mexican minister of foreign affairs today on his way to Mexico City,
but was not joined by any of the Modero family, who are expected soon
to enter into peace negotiations with representatives of Mexican government.

De La Barra expressed the highest esteem for American people and their president, and said relations between Mexico and the United States were
sincerely friendly.

Muzzling Troops.

El Paso, March 30.—The insurgents
in northern Mexico are being concentrated west of Chihuahua. It is not positively known whether this is intended as a move in the possible military complications or merely the desire of men to be nearby during the peace negotiations so as to have some
part in making of terms.

Wait a week. Another week will tell whether there is to be peace or further war in Mexico, according to Alfonso Madero,
a brother of the rebel leader.

A synopsis of the talk between Limanhour, the Mexican minister of finance, and Francisco I. Madero, Sr.,
at New York, in which tentative proposals are made, has been sent to the insurgents' chief, at present a day's journey west of Chihuahua. Within a week his answer is expected. It will say the final word as to whether
the negotiations shall become formal.

Rebels at El Paso. Hermosillo, Mexico, March 30.—No government announcement has been made here yet of the federal victory
over the rebels near Ures and as the ammunition is still being sent to the front it is believed that fighting is still in progress. The rebels are known to have their forces concentrated near there and it is believed
following the fight of Monday the bat-

FIND SUSPECTS IN CULTURED MADISON

Followers of the See Doctrine Discovered in Madison With Valuable Testimony.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 30.—Memories of the recent exposure in Chicago
of the "Absolute Life" cult, which was led by Evelyn Arthur See and whose members were followed by hundreds of people and involved the alleged unlawful teaching of many young girls, have been revived by the arrest in this city on Tuesday morning
of Agnes Chester See and Dennis Henderson, by federal secret service officers. Henderson, the two women were taken into custody on a subpoena duces tecum which has all the force of a warrant, and taken to Chicago to testify in cases pending against See, but the fact was kept secret and leaked out only today.
Mentioned in the subpoena also was
the name of a man, Julius H. Genesee,
but he was not taken here, and it is not known whether he is supposed to have lived here with them. Mrs. See is suing her husband for divorce.
It is not known how long the women
have been living here, nor where they were arrested, as the federal marshal and his deputy are maintaining a secretive attitude in the matter. It is reported,
however, that a connection was established between the most recent capture and the recent scandal involving Edwin Hillman, university extension lecturer, who has been sentenced to Fort Leavenworth prison
for five years for maintaining an obscene and unlawful correspondence with women and girls. The women
had with them a large amount of documents, literature and other paraphernalia used by See in his Chicago venture, which was needed as evidence
and which evidently had been transported here to keep it out of the government's hands.

ATTORNEY'S WIFE TO BE TRIED IN TEXAS ON MURDER CHARGE

Shooting Prompted by Jealousy of Alleged Affinity of Husband, It Is Said, And Revelations Are Expected.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Fort Worth, Tex., March 30.—For
the first time in many years a woman
charged with murder in the first degree is to be placed on trial in this city next Monday. The defendant in the case is Mrs. T. M. Brooks, wife of a prominent attorney, and her trial
upon the charge of having shot and killed Mrs. Mary Buford, in the department of a local dry goods store,
is to begin in the District Court.

The crime with which Mrs. Brooks
is charged, was committed on January 16 of this year and is believed to have been prompted by jealousy. Neither Mrs. Brooks nor her husband have shown any inclination to make a statement that would indicate the cause of the tragedy, but for some time there have been rumors strongly hinting
that Mrs. Brooks did not live happily
with her husband and that she believed
her husband's affection had been allocated by Mrs. Buford, who was divorced about two years ago and was considered a rather fascinating and handsome woman. It is expected that at the coming trial some light
will be thrown upon the relations between the defendant and her husband
and between the latter and the victim
of the tragedy and this prospect has greatly intensified the public interest
in the case.

Whatever may have been the marital complications, whether Mrs. Brooks jealousy was well founded or based merely upon a tissue of her own imagination, is still a mystery. At all events, however, it seemed real enough
to the defendant at the time of her desperate deed. Armed with a big,
old fashioned revolver, Mrs. Brooks,
on the afternoon of January 16, made her way to the dry goods store where Mrs. Buford was employed. While she passed through the whole length
of the lower floor on her way to the elevator, Mrs. Brooks met many acquaintances. Smilingly she bowed and stopped several times to chat
pleasantly with her friends, not one of whom suspected for a moment that a few minutes later Mrs. Brooks would be the chief actor in a tragedy.

Mrs. Brooks took the elevator to the second floor of the establishment,
where Mrs. Buford was employed.
As she stepped from the elevator Mrs.
Brooks inquired where she could find
Mrs. Buford, and as the latter approached, Mrs. Brooks without saying a word or giving any warning, pulled
her big revolver from her muff. Mrs.
Buford, realizing her danger, grappled
with Mrs. Brooks and tried to wrest
the weapon from her. Her strength was no match, however, for that of Mrs. Brooks and she was quickly freed
herself and forced the other woman against the wall. In the scuffle the weapon was discharged, the bullet
piercing the way through Mrs. Buford's hand.

With her victim at bay, Mrs. Brooks
stepped back and fired four times.
The second ball struck Mrs. Buford in the left shoulder, the third one, one inch higher and the fourth entered the base of the neck, shattering the spinal vertebra. Just before her victim sank to the floor, Mrs. Brooks fired again the bullet striking Mrs. Buford behind the ear, causing her to fall back on the floor.

RADICAL CHANGES IN COLLECTING THE TAX

Two Bills in Legislature Aimed at the Present Attorney General Have Been Introduced.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 30.—A radical change is contemplated in the method
of collecting inheritance taxes from estates owned outside the state in two bills introduced by the senate judiciary committee. The measures are said to be merely aimed at the present
attorney general on the theory that he may have too free a hand in such matters. The settlement of the late James S. Kennedy of New York for $255,000 caused some criticism of the system now followed and the drafting
of the bills was immediately begun.
One of the measures prohibits the compounding or settlement tentatively
in advance of any inheritance tax
case, or the transfer of any stock, until the matter has been gone over by the county judge at the seat of gov-

in the murder trial of the Camorrista's

of the infamous Abatemaggio, is "a

ANTI-BUCKET SHOP LAW IS ILLEGAL

According To Decision of Justice
Wright of District of Columbia
Supreme Court Today.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Washington, March 30.—A sweeping
decision declaring the anti-bucket shop
law unconstitutional because of its unlawfulness was rendered today by Justice Wright, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court. In the case against 15 alleged bucket shop
proprietors in Washington, Baltimore
and Chicago, arrested in simultaneous
raids by the department of justice
last May, were ordered dismissed. Attorney General Wickham refused to discontinue the suit to the government's anti-gambling campaign, but
said the decision would be fought out
to the Supreme Court of the United States.

"TONNAGE" TAXATION BILL IS FAVORED

Method of Taxing Vessels Reported Favorably by Committee.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 30.—The senate committee on taxation today
reported for passage the "tonnage"
bill providing for a return to the "tonnage"
system of taxation of steam vessels on international waters, and the discontinuance of the present method, by which such property is treated as
the same as any personal property.
The reason for favoring the tonnage
system which was followed in this state prior to 1905, is that the registration of vessels as being owned in Wisconsin cities should be encouraged, and it is argued that the loss
of taxes by the change would be inconsequential, as comparatively few
pay the local tax on their boats. It is said, that there are many craft now
registered from Duluth, Gary and Michigan City, Ind., and Chicago,
which are owned in Wisconsin cities
and that the latter lose prestige that might be gained by the lettering of vessels with
the name of such municipalities.

SEEKING LAST OF MURDERER'S GANG

Scotland Yard Hunting Down Peter,
The Painter and Other Supposed
Members of Houndstitch Gang.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

London, March 30.—Scotland Yard
has called in the assistance of continental police and detectives who have specialized on political crime to aid them in following up the Hound-
stitch gang of anarchists.

The English police are understood
to have been satisfied, following the battle on Sidney street, that the group has been completely wiped out, with the exception of Peter the Painter,
who was believed to have fled England, but Home Secretary Winston Churchill held a different opinion.
His idea is that the gang is a large one
and that only a few of its comparatively unimportant members have been disposed of.

What he especially fears is an outbreak during coronation week and to guard against this the most energetic search is being made of the foreign quarter in London for suspicious characters. It is even possible that the continental method may be adopted
for arresting known anarchists on the eve of the coronation festivities
and holding them under tramped up charges until after the celebration is over.

RUSSIAN EXPERTS ARE PESSIMISTIC

Reports Received at St. Petersburg
From Plague Districts Say Conditions are Worse Than Reported From Peking.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

St. Petersburg, March 30.—In contradiction of the encouraging reports
from Peking in the Russian government is receiving alarming advices from its experts in the Far East. In localities
where the population is nearly wiped out, they say, there are naturally fewer cases, but with the breaking of the rivers it is declared that the spread of the disease is inevitable.
In Puzhishan, the Chinese quarter of Harbin, the population has been reduced from 10,000 to 4,000. Most of the survivors are children, pulmonary plague rarely attacking these under 14. There are certainly cases of the disease in Siberia but the proportion of the epidemic there are uncertain
owing to the immense distances and primitive means of communication.
The government is prepared, if there is an outbreak in European Russia,
to draw military cordons around infected districts and kill any one attempting to break through.

PERSONAL VICTORY GAINED BY INGRAM IN THE ASSEMBLY

Speaker Successful in Efforts to Secure Immediate Action on the Onstand Bill.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Madison, March 30.—Speaker Ingram of the assembly today gained a personal victory when he proceeded to the floor and succeeded in securing favorable action on the On-stand bill prohibiting railroads from advancing rates without having first
secured permission from the state railway commission. Action on the bill was ordered postponed several days ago. The speaker, however, by personal efforts, secured immediate action, and as a result the measure
was ordered engrossed and read the third time. It will come up for passage next week.

The senate today consumed the entire morning in debate of the Boden-stat bill which seeks to repeal the statutes giving persons who furnish buildings for buildings from such buildings. A recess was taken at noon for further hearing tonight.

The floor was then devoted to the delegation of officials from all parts of the state here today succeed in having passed the Bodenstat bill providing for a state board to license all persons engaged in selling homes need for the human eye.

Gov. McFerson today appointed H.
H. Allen of Elkhart Center as a member of the state board of pharmacy for a five-year term.

GETTLE REFERENDUM WILL COME IN SOON

Constitutional Amendment for Instituting Referendum to Be Brought Before Assembly Before Long.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 30.—An amended form of the new "referendum"
constitutional amendment, recently
proposed by Assemblyman Gettle will be reported in the assembly soon. It is a distinct variation upon the Oregon plan still, but in the new draft
the legislature by inference is given
power to designate the method by which the people may be given power
of initiating legislation. This is the only provision on this subject and there is likely to be a strenuous attempt on the floor of the house to make the initiative section more proliferative by allowing the people to introduce bills for a referendum without
the intervention of the legislature.

Another new provision exempts appropriations for public institutions
from the operation of the referendum
when the appropriations are the same
as received before, the referendum
being limited to increase in amounts granted. This will also receive opposition, on the ground that it would prevent the people from securing a referendum upon, for instance, bills
for appropriations to the university,
except in the case of increases.

PLAGUE VICTIMS WERE EXPELLED

Rumor That Chinese Had Attacked
Capitol of Amur Province Due to Expulsion of Plague Victims.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Petersburg, March 30.—An official telegram received by the foreign office from Harbin today explains last night's rumor of the Chinese attack
upon Glogoshtelsk, the capitol
of Amur Province, arose from the expulsion from the Russian bank of the Amur river of many Chinese who had fallen thence from the plague centers.
They are now returning in starving
condition and frequently attack the Russian travelers.

AMENDMENT IS NOW VIRTUALLY KILLED

Maine Is Twelfth State in Union
Which Has Gone On Record
Against Income Tax
Measure.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Augusta, Me., March 30.—The proposed income tax amendment to the Federal constitution is practically dead. With the federal constitution
providing that a three fourths vote
of the states is necessary to ratify a constitutional amendment, Maine went on record today as the twelfth state
voting to reject the resolution passed by the U. S. Senate and House, unless some states which have voted to reject, reconsider the proposed movement, it is now lost.

SENATE ENDORSES A RADICAL BILL REGARDING LABOR

Workmen's Compensation Measure
Goes Through the Upper House
At Madison Easily.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 30.—With but three members voting adversely, the senate passed the workmen's compensation bill under suspension of the rules late yesterday afternoon, and then went to support nineteen amendments recommended by the special
joint committee on workmen's compensation and finance were adopted
before the measure came to final passage. With these amendments the bill is expected to have the approval
of the agriculturalists in the assembly.
The amendments also wipe out the objections of Milwaukee manufacturers and manufacturers in the state at large.

The roll-call on the bill was as follows:
For passage: Bishop, Blaine, Boden-
stat, Bosworth, Burke, Donald, Gaylord, Hoyt, Huston, Kelson, Kneiss, Linley, Martin, Randolph, Sanborn,
Scott, Snover, Treadwell, Weigle, White
and Zophy.—22.
Against: Albans, Thomas, White-
head.—3.

Paired: Perry for; Wright, against.
Absent: Browne, James, Leht, Lyons, Owen and True.

The roll-call was the same on advancing the measure and upon passage. The bill now will be enrolled and sent to the assembly, where it
probably will come up for action
week after next, the lower house not
being in session until late next week.

The necessity of voting separately
or in groups of two or three on the nineteen amendments, consumed considerable time. The only real delay,
however, was in the second amendment upon which the committee
split 6 to 3. This is the amendment which restores the two defenses of fellow servant and assumption of risk
to those employers who elect to come under the optional portion of the bill. Senator Blaine, who dissented
from the recommendation of this amendment in committee, made an explanation of his stand. He said that he had doubts as to its constitutionality
and did not want to see the act
placed in peril before the courts just because of the one alteration. He was followed by Senator Linley, who urged the adoption of the amendment
as a matter of justice to employer and employee. Senator Linley gave it as his opinion that the amendment
was clearly within constitutional rights. Senator Gaylord took the floor and talked against it, saying that he also had serious doubts as to its constitutionality. "If I saw any way
by which this monstrous act could escape the test of the courts I should advocate such a plan. I feel forced to vote against this amendment although I desire to say that I shall vote for the bill," said Mr. Gaylord.

FIRE DESTROYS OLD COURT HOUSE TODAY

No Burning, No Smarting

The wonderful comfort of Red Cross Shoes is especially desirable during the spring months and hot weather when the feet are so sensitive. The sole is of regular thickness, yet you can bend it double when new. There is no heavy inside sole, no cushions of felt to make the feet perspire.

Come in and try on the Red Cross Shoe. Walk in it. Learn how it moves with the foot. This is what gives the feeling of ease. You cannot imagine how comfortable it is until you have worn it.

Why the Horse Rolls.
Horses are fond of rolling on the ground, and no animal more thoroughly shakes itself than they do. After a roll they give themselves a shake or two to remove anything adhering to the coat. The habit is of much service to horses living in open plains. On being turned loose at the end of a journey, Arab horse rolls in the sand, which acts as blotting paper, absorbing exudations from the body. A shake removes the sand, and the coat soon dries. Cavalrymen in hot climates sometimes put sand on their horses as the simplest and quickest way of drying them.

MARKET REMAINS WITHOUT FEATURE

QUIETNESS SEEMS TO BE GENERAL AT ALL THE WAREHOUSES OF THE CITY.

SORTERS STILL AT WORK

On the 1910 Crop, Most of Which Has Been Delivered at Present—Some Sales of Old Goods Reported.

It is the common verdict of the dealers at this point that the conditions in the tobacco market are not productive of any pronounced activity, and although there are the same number of warehouses at work as in the 1910 season, many of them are handling the end of the season's stock at the present time.

Most of the new crop has been delivered in this locality with only scattering lots to be received and these will be brought in as soon as possible. While it may be said that the present season has not been as active as some in former years, still there has been a large amount of the crop landed here and several of the warehouses will be busy for weeks to come.

It is reported by F. S. Barnes, recently returned from a trip into Pennsylvania and eastern tobacco sections, that the 1910 crop in that state is much superior to the Wisconsin product of the past year. The quality is better, in the main, and the demand has been fairly good for the crops in that section. Mr. Barnes, during his week or ten day visit purchased about four carloads of the new crop which will be shipped to his warehouse here at an early date.

More than the usual amount of low grades is found in the Wisconsin 1910 crops, due to the ravages of the grasshoppers and worms and storms in some localities. However the demand for the most of this product is said to be fairly good and the better grades are of about the usual quality, but turn out somewhat less per acre than the ordinary run.

Receipts of the new crop by the dealers here have been light during the past week and have amounted to only a few carloads. Most of the crop in the immediate vicinity has been delivered and at the other points of supply there is not much to be found unshipped.

Some activity is reported in the old goods during the past week. In this line the Fisher and Fisher salivago has been packed and shipped from the S. B. Hedden warehouse where it was treated by the Hedden renovating process. There were two consignments of this lot which totaled to the neighborhood of 200 cases. The entire lot was put into good shape and a much larger amount was saved than was at first thought possible.

The firm of Fisher and Fisher has disbanded and has permanently gone out of the Wisconsin tobacco business. They had been engaged in handling the leaf in this city for a number of years past and have handled large amounts of the tobacco of this section. They have engaged in the manufacture of mission furniture in the city of St. Paul, Minnesota.

They are one of the first firms to withdraw from the trade here. Consignments of old goods in eastern points may be noted as follows: S. B. Hedden, 1 car of '10, and 1 car of '09; T. E. Walsh, 1 car of '09; F. S. Barnes, 22 cases of '08, and other smaller amounts.

Another note of the trade might be added to the effect that F. S. Barnes has rented his Madison warehouse to the firm of P. H. Peacock and company of Sheboygan, manufacturers of creamery and dairy supplies. Some thousand cases of the old and new crops which are stored there will be transferred to the storage warehouse here in the near future.

SHOW LAST EVENING WAS PLEASING ONE

"The Rival Candidates" Proved Very Satisfactory and Manager Announces Good Bill for Week.

Frank Dudley again scored a hit in the great comedy, "The Rival Candidates" last evening. The company's excellent work requires no comment, and they are generally accorded the palm by the theatre goers as being the best acting repertoire company seen here in years. Mr. Dudley as John Douglas, one of the political candidates, gave an excellent interpretation of the character, and Mr. McAdams as John Bashforth gave him good support. Miss Davenport played Janet to perfection, playing it with a naturalness that lent an added charm to the production. The company has some especially pleasing costumes, and the specialties are also deserving of praise. Mr. McAdams and Miss Davenport gave a fine dancing and singing specialty.

Tonight the Blue Ribbon laughing farce comedy of them all "Hello Bill." If you have a case of the "Blues," "Hello Bill" is the time to dispel them. Don't overlook the feature play Friday night, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Mr. Dudley understated Mr. Richard Mansfield two seasons, and the management wants the skeptical ones to come and be convinced. ## ARE PREPARING FOR ELECTION TUESDAY

Voting Machines Are Being Put Up and Other Preparations Made for Contest of Next Week.

Preparatory work for the spring election on next Tuesday has been commenced. There are an indefinite number of small details in making the necessary arrangements which must be attended to.

The vote will be cast on the voting machines, which are being made ready for use in the various wards of the city by W. W. Willis. The candidates on the primary election when the ballots were used. The machines might have been used in that case also, but for the inconvenience of arranging the machine for tickets where there are contests for any of the offices.

Despite the fact that it is supposed to be easier to vote on the machines than by the ballot method, many voters prefer the paper forms to turning the lever, prejudice against the new method probably being the principal reason. Confusion might also result for the voters on the tickets where more than one candidate sought a certain office.

The machines are declared to be the better way of voting in that the ballots are cast more accurately, defective ballots are thrown out automatically by the machine, and the work of the inspectors and clerks is made less tedious.

ANTI-SALOON MASS MEETING ON SUNDAY

Manager's Effective Retort.
Much has been written about the greed and avarice of theatrical managers and producers, but the accusations are often disproved. The producers are out to get all the money they can, but they are frequently awayed by other motives. One of the best-known managers in New York put on a play last year, and it was a success; such a flattering success that its author was much elated, not to say puffed up. But he nursed as grievances some of the changes the manager had made in the play. "Mr. Blank," he said one morning to the producer, "you would be the greatest producer in the world if you would only stay out of the theater while rehearsals are going on. You are fine on putting up the money, but that's all." The manager touched a button on his desk, and said to the messenger, "Tell my booking agent to stop all performances of this fellow's play. I'm going to take it off."

Dear Killed by Train.
The New Haven railroad passenger train for New York city ran into a herd of five deer near Fluteville, Conn. The train was running down grade and as it rounded a curve the engineer saw the animals on the track a few rods ahead.

He blew the whistle and pulled the reversing lever, but a buck and a doe were not as quick in leaping as their companions. These two were struck and killed. The train was stopped and the dead deer were lifted aboard. Every trainman had venison for supper that night.

Motors With Music in London.
Popular tunes on motor car horns, produced by means of brass cylindrical records, such as are used for gramophones, are the latest sounds heard in London streets. For some time it has been possible to get a telephone, which will play four notes, but the new motor car horn will play a whole series of tunes. One was heard a few days ago playing that charming tune, "Let's All Go Down the Strand."

It pays to read the page.

WAS JUST LIKE A WOMAN

One "Jiggled the Scales" and the Other Failed to Deduct Her "Wet Hair."

"They met, duly shod, at the Turkish bath scales, and the thin woman drew back in horror.

"Let's make a compact," she suggested. "Don't you look at the scales when I'm weighed and I won't look while you're weighed. Because it's pretty certain that I've lost and you've gained."

"All right," said the stout woman, with resignation, "but it doesn't really matter, because we'll be sure to tell each other anyway while we're at luncheon. Eating together, if you notice, is almost as destructive to feminine secrecy as spending the night together—haven't you told things you'd vowed not to, hundreds and hundreds of times, just as soon as you and the other woman had your back hair down? And, even if we don't tell each other today the attendants will tell us next time. So let's not look at the scales. If you like, but let's promise to be honest if we say anything at all."

"All right," agreed the thin woman, blinding her eyes, child fashion while the other stepped to the platform. Then the stout woman conscientiously regarded the ceiling while the thin woman took her turn.

"One hundred and twelve pounds!" proudly proclaimed the thin woman at luncheon.

"One hundred and seventy!" countered the stout woman. The two exchanged keen and dubious glances.

"Honest?" they said in unison.

"Well," admitted the thin woman, blushing, "I did jiggle the scales a little, because I remembered that my skirt wasn't as big as yours and I felt that I ought to be allowed something on that account. How about yourself, since you're so mighty particular?"

"The stout woman colored.

"Well, I—I forgot to have the attendant hold up my hair while I was weighed," she admitted, "and you know wet hair weighs awful heavy. So I—I took off a couple of pounds for that."

A Huge Earth Dam.

The big Bello Fourche irrigation dam in South Dakota, which is the largest earth embankment in the world, is nearing completion. Construction of the project was authorized by congress on May 10, 1904, at a cost of $5,000,000.

From an engineering standpoint the Bello Fourche project is one of the most interesting which the government has yet undertaken. Its principal structure is the earthen dam. This wonderful dike, which closes the lowest depressions in the rim of a natural basin, is 6,200 feet long, 20 feet wide on top and 115 high in the highest place.

The inside face of this structure, which has a slope of two to one, will be protected from wave and ice action by two feet of screened gravel, on which will be placed concrete blocks, each 4 by 6 feet and 8 inches thick. The cubical contents of this dike will be 42,700,000 cubic feet, or about half of the famous pyramid of Cheops. The reservoir created by this dam will cover about 3,000 acres, and will be the largest lake in the state. —Popular Mechanics.

An Honor to Allison.

"Do you know," inquired Wilbur Reaser, the New York portrait painter, "that when my painting of Senator Allison was hung in the lobby of the senate, the precedent of 40 years was broken?"

Surprised being expressed Mr. Reaser explained.

"It is a fact that since the beginning of the constitutional government the senate had bought only nine portraits for the lobby. The first was Washington's and the eighth was Charles Sumner's. For almost 40 years nobody was considered worthy to follow in the distinguished line.

"It was generally thought that no other portrait would ever be added to the group; but when Senator Allison died, after serving longer in the senate than any other man in the history of the government, the rule was broken, and his picture became the ninth."—Washington Times.

A Rare Book of Discoverers.

A copy of the rare epoch making work of the Spanish naval officer and historian, Martin P. de Navarrete, on early voyages to America, will be sold at Mervin-Clayton's, says the New York Times. It contains 500 important documents relating to the period of the discovery, 1492-1540, including the voyages of Columbus and Vesputi and the "lesser voyages," which forms the basis of Washington Irving's "Voyages of the Companions of Columbus." Navarrete's work is regarded as the corner stone of modern critical knowledge on this subject of early discoveries.

Miss Clara Hanson and Elmer Hay took United in Marriage At Edgerton Lutheran Parsonage Last Evening.

(Special to the Gazette.)
Edgerton, March 30.—Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the parsonage of the Norwegian Lutheran church occurred the marriage of Miss Clara M. Hanson of this city and Elmer D. Haylock of Fulton, township, Rev. J. Linnvold officiating. After the ceremony the party proceeded to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Gilbert Hanson, where an elegant supper was served and which was attended only by near relatives of the contracting parties. Later in the evening the bride and groom departed for their farm home in the town of Fulton, where they will make their future home.

Mr. Haylock has rented his uncle's farm at that place and will conduct the same. The bride is a modest and unassuming young lady, widely educated, and the many friends join in extending hearty congratulations.

Personal.

TO PLACE SPAWN IN TURTLE CREEK

Is Expected That State Fish Commission Will Place Two or Three Hundred Thousand Spawns in Stream.

(Special to the Gazette.)
Clinton, March 30.—Two or three hundred thousand spawns are expected soon from the state fish commission to be put in Turtle Creek.

Farwell Party.
The Order of Eastern Star and the Masonic Lodge, Tuesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Tubbs, gave a farwell reception to Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reeder. The removal of Mr. and Mrs. Reeder and family from Clinton is a loss to the entire community as they will be entirely missed from the business, social and church life here. The best wishes of the entire community go with them to their new home.

Social and Personal.
C. C. Smith was in Chicago yesterday on business.

The United Workers' society will be entertained next Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. E. H. Tubbs and Miss Jessie Snyder, at the home of the former, from 2 to 5 p. m. Every lady in Clinton and vicinity is cordially invited to attend.

Miss Anna Latta entertained her friend, Miss Portinton of Evansville, from Saturday morning until Sunday night.

Mrs. George W. Hare and son, Earl, are visiting relatives in Milwaukee this week.

Miss Ada Davis is confined to her bed by a case of grippe at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Hubbell, on North Church street.

Clifton Barham is visiting Joe Williams at Madison.

The gymnastic exhibition of the boys of the Y. M. C. A., at Drake's hall tomorrow night, will be liberally patronized.

Resourceful.
"Every man can find work if he uses his brains," said Andrew Carnegie, in an after-dinner address in New York. "If there are no more openings in oil and sugar, rubber should be turned to, and if the automobile trade grows crowded, then there will probably be openings in the aeroplane line."

"We should all be like the piano tuner I once met out west."

"Why, I said to him—for we were in a wild, unsettled country—surely piano tuning can't be very lucrative here. I shouldn't imagine that pianos were very plentiful in this region."

"No, sir, they're not," said the piano tuner, "but I make a pretty fair income by tightening up barbed wire fences."

A Wise Mayor.
Mayor Crump, at a Democratic banquet in Memphis, said of a political turncoat:

"He is an inconsistent in politics as man is in love."

"Man's inconsistency in love is, you know, proverbial. The average man, as soon as he wins a woman, tires of her. The advice I'd give to every girl is this:

"There is only one way to keep a man's love, and that is never to return it."

Rotten Cigarette Paper.
Much cigarette paper is made from waste untanned hemp rope.

CARRIES OFFICE IN HAND

Portable Office Used by Railroad Conductors Model of Neatness and Compactness.

A man who actually carries his office in his hand is the railroad conductor. Usually it is a box specially made and ornamented with bright brass trimmings and brass handles, and with the conductor's name neatly engraved on a brass plate.

When his trip is finished you will see him leave the train carrying his office with him. The railroad has no rent to pay for him and yet he is one of the busiest of employees, with many accounts to keep.

In this hand office of the conductor are all the records of his trip and it is a model of neatness and compactness. There is a place in his office for all the tickets collected, an envelope for his cash fare receipts, and many blank forms which he is required to fill out with particulars of the run.

Usually the conductor opens up his office in the baggage car or in an empty seat after his train has left the last station of the run. For some time thereafter he is a busy man.

His portable office when opened is transformed into a little desk having pigeonholes and writing materials, and with it open in front of him the conductor counts his tickets, sorts them among the proper pigeonholes and makes up his accounts. It is all done generally before the train gets in, and upon arrival at the terminal he takes his office with him and departs with the rest of the passengers.

APPRENTICE BOY OF TODAY

Principal Feature of New System Is Individual Attention of Shop Instructors.

Twenty years ago an apprentice boy entered a railway shop down east. He was indentured and began his service with happy anticipation of the pleasure of learning the trade of machinist as many have done more recently.

He worked six months "snagging" castings, gave up hope and quit. No one in the shop paid the slightest attention to him. No one thought of teaching him anything. He could not induce the foreman to put him on any other work and he became discouraged. That kind of apprenticeship is of course a failure.

Do you realize that the new apprenticeship contains two elements which the old never had? The first of these is the individual attention of shop instructors who are competent mechanics and who have nothing else to do. The second is mental development in school coincident with the shop development. Do you realize the advantages which you as instructors enjoy over the teachers in public schools and even over college professors? Your pupils have not only selected their callings, but they are actually following them and they are holding their own and making their way among men earning their own living.

Train Wrecks in Italy.

There have been no fewer than 18 attempts at train wrecking in various parts of Italy, recently, particularly in the southern provinces, by means of false signals and by placing explosives on the tracks. These are the first results of a campaign of obstruction and sabotage which has begun on the state railroads because of the government's delay in satisfying the demands of the railroad men for higher wages.

Ninety thousand of the lower grade employees out of a total of 146,000 railroad men are getting from 37 to 62 cents a day. Most of these are married men who have large families, and many of them have worked on the state lines from fifteen to thirty years.

Prime Minister Luzzatti declares that the government refuses to be coerced, and is resolved to punish severely the authors of such outrages. The railroad men's federation threatens that unless the questions in dispute are immediately debated in Parliament and settled to the satisfaction of the staff, a general strike will be declared on all the Italian railroads on the eve of the great international exhibitions in Rome and Turin.

Aerial Torpedoes.

Lieutenant-Colonel Muge, of the Swedish army, is credited with the invention of aerial torpedoes. These torpedoes are very light, and it is said that they will travel for a distance of about three miles. They can be made to explode either by contact or by means of clockwork. They are launched by means of a special apparatus with an explosive weighing rather over two and one-half pounds. When launched the torpedo travels at the rate of fifty meters the second; but the velocity is soon increased to three hundred meters, the meter being thirty-one inches. Experiments are shortly to be made with this engine of destruction at Krupp's works, where there are the apparatus and one hundred torpedoes.

Most Dangerous Occupation.

The work of railroad trainmen is not the most dangerous occupation. It seems that the highest percentage of fatality is found among the fishermen of Gloucester, Mass., where it is nearly 12 per cent. of the total number employed.

Cox's statements regarding Judge Gorman and the jury resulted in the appointment of three lawyers to decide whether Cox was in contempt of court. The charge was not sustained. Judge Gorman will likely try Cox on the perjury charge in the near future.

JANESVILLE WILL GREET AUTOISTS

INTER CLUB RUN OF TWO BIG CHICAGO MOTOR CLUBS SELECT THIS CITY AS END OF FIRST DAY'S JOURNEY.

TWO HUNDRED EXPECTED

John G. DeLong, Former Resident, Deserves Credit for Putting Janesville on the Auto Map.

Through the efforts of John G. DeLong, former Janesville resident, now connected with the sporting department of the Chicago Tribune, Janesville has been put on the autoist map for the big inter club run of the C. A. C. and C. A. A., June 15, next. At least plans are being made for the entertainment of the two hundred guests that are expected here for the night.

The Boost.

In writing of the proposed run in the Chicago Tribune this morning, Mr. DeLong says:

"Janesville, Wis., famed among other things as a preparatory center of learning for baseball and railroad managers, crack golfers and expert trap shooters, has been put on the motorist map. The Rock river city tonight was selected as the overnight stop of the fourth annual inter club team match at a joint meeting of the Chicago Athletic Association and Chicago Automobile Club committees yesterday. The dates selected for the reliability run are June 13 and 14.

"The route chosen is a compromise one, but it is thought it will prove more popular than others suggested at the meeting. The highway that always prevails in negotiations between the two amateur organizations was in evidence, but members of each committee favored a different route.

"Some time ago the Chicago Automobile Club men announced their preference for Starved Rock as the objective point of the tour, and when the committee finished their discussion and got down to business the picturesque Little Illinois resort was suggested as the overnight control.

Object to Accommodations.
The Chicago Athletic Association representatives objected on the grounds that it did not offer adequate accommodations and came within a counter proposal to hold the run to Milwaukee. The Cream City idea failed to find favor with the C. A. C. men, and it was then that S. W. Hamm of the C. A. A. suggested Janesville as a compromise turning point for the contest. Madison also came in for consideration, but the Wisconsin capital was turned down on account of its distance from Chicago.

"Janesville may be reached over routes varying from 108 to 120 miles, and the longer distance probably will be decided upon for the first day's trip. On the return journey a different route than the one followed going out likely will be picked. This point will be decided at the next meeting of the joint committee to be held after the participants make their report. Frank W. Wentworth, who was selected as chairman of the meeting, named A. J. Banta as scout, and the locomotive man, together with others, will drive to Janesville Saturday of next week for the purpose of blazing the trail and gathering other data.

Route Yet to Be Picked.

"The Automobile blue book routes will be consulted in selecting the course to be followed. Going by way of Highland Park, Half Day, McHenry, Havert, Lake Geneva, and Delavan offers a route of about 115 miles, but the distance may be stretched by going through other towns. Four committees representing the C. A. A. were Frank W. Wentworth, H. H. Latham, W. F. Grower, S. W. Hamm, and C. T. Knisely, while the C. A. C. contingent included T. J. Hay, C. G. Shambaugh, A. J. Banta, A. S. Ray, and J. T. Brown. C. G. Shambaugh was named as chairman of a committee on routes, dates, etc., with Messrs. Grower, Brown, Hamm, Banta, and W. C. Thorne as his associates."

DEATH HAS CALLED AN AGED RESIDENT

Mrs. Caroline Pease Richardson Passes To The World Beyond This Morning.

With the death of Mrs. Hamilton Richardson this morning, Janesville loses another of its old residents. Mrs. Caroline Pease Richardson, widow of the late Hamilton Richardson, was born at Edfield, Connecticut, on October 8, 1826. She was the daughter of Judge Lorrain T. Pease and Sarah Marshall Pease. In 1839 Judge Pease was selected by the General Government to settle certain claims with the Indians and with his family moved to Green Day, then the chief settlement in the Territory of Wisconsin. There that time with the exception of five years spent in Hartford, Connecticut, Mrs. Richardson has made her home in Wisconsin, and with every widening interest has watched a few frontier settlements grow into one of the great states of the Union.

She has been a resident of Janesville since 1879 and during all those years has taken an active interest in the welfare of the city. Associated with a few other women she organized our Free Public Library and carried it on until it was taken over by the city. With others she founded Oak Lawn Hospital, and during all her life was active and helpful in all the fields of action that are open to women.

She was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, The Colonial Dames, the Woman's History Club and other social organizations and was one of the founders of Christ Church, in this city.

With all her activities in public and social life she was always mindful of those home duties that mark the best type of woman. Her friends will remember the warm and abundant hospitality of her home, but only her children can fully appreciate the ever-growing beauty of her character.

In 1858 she was married to Hamilton Richardson, six children survive her. One daughter Sarah M. Richardson and five sons, Victor, Hamilton, John, Marshall and Lorrain.

Of New England ancestry, she possesses all the abiding faith of her Puritan forefathers, but this faith was broadened by years of study and cultivation and by a character filled with homeliness and kindly toward all. She was a good neighbor, a loyal friend, a devoted wife and a mother of blessed memory.

WAS BOND ISSUE PROPERLY DRAWN?

WAS THE RECENT QUESTION OF BRIDGES PROPERLY SUBMITTED TO THE PEOPLE.

QUESTION HAS BEEN RAISED

Attorneys Differ on the Subject—No Bonds Issued to Purchasers Until it is Settled.

There is a question as to whether the bonds which the city offers for sale for the construction of the two new bridges, at Fourth avenue, and Racine street, are worth the paper they are printed on or not. Legal opinion differs on the question and meanwhile City Treasurer, Pathe, will not issue the bonds to the purchasers until these questions have been decided.

There appear to be two questions raised by attorneys who have made an investigation of the bonds at the request of prospective purchasers. One that the city exceeded its authority as laid down in Section 8 of Chapter 4 of the city charter in issuing bonds in excess of $20,000, and second, in the fact that at the election last November the question of bond issue was not voted on as prescribed in Section 913 of the revised statutes which says that the question of issuing bonds must be voted on and carried by a majority of the people. The vote last fall was merely whether two bridges or one be constructed.

The issue of the bonds totals $42,000—the sum of $17,000 for the Racine street structure, and $25,000 for the Fourth avenue bridge. Other attorneys who have examined the bonds, which are already printed and ready for delivery, state that the only trouble lies in the phraseology of the bonds themselves and can be easily adjusted without any serious inconvenience.

The bonds were drawn up by the city attorney and have been over-subscribed. As there is also some question as to the purchase of the right of way for the approach of the Racine street structure on the west side of the river it is possible that Janesville will have to have another special election on the question or go without bridges after all.

CHIMNEY FIRE ATTRACTED ADAMS SCHOOL CHILDREN

Blaze at Richardson Home on Prospect Avenue Caused Youngsters in School Yard to Congregate.

Sparks and flames shooting out of one of the chimneys at the Richardson home, 329 Prospect avenue, caused considerable excitement in that section of the ward at one o'clock this afternoon and practically emptied the schoolyard of the Adams school, a large number of the children thronging there. A still alarm was sent in to the fire department and three of the wagons answered the call. The flames were extinguished by throwing salt down the chimney and the danger of another blaze removed.

A sweet, noble disposition is absolutely essential to the highest form of beauty, wrote Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. It has transformed many a plain face. A bad temper, ill nature, jealousy, will ruin the most beautiful face ever created. After all, there is no beauty like that produced by a lovely character. Neither cosmetics, make-up, nor drugs can remove the lines of prejudice, selfishness, envy, anxiety, mental vacillation, that are the results of wrong thought habits.

REPORT OF DELANEY RELEASE NOT TRUE

Despite Fact That He Was Reported Out of Jail, Henry Delaney Has Not Left "Cage."

Mistaking Arlo Delaney, a brother of Henry Delaney, who is in the county jail awaiting trial for burglary, someone attempted to spread the report that Henry Delaney had been released from jail and was working for the Interurban company. According to the report, Henry Delaney was employed in the work of putting in the cable at Spring Brook. Henry Delaney, however, is at present locked up in the "cage" at the county jail, having been there since Monday, when he was taken from the jail to municipal court. The story told on the streets was not given much credence, although published in a morning paper.

The two men have similar features and perhaps to one unacquainted with them the one might possibly be mistaken for the other, but anyone who has seen both more than once is able to distinguish the difference.

The Church Fair

THE great annual church fair was only two days away. In the home of Leon and Rose everything was ready. You see these two little people were going to participate and for over a month they had been making preparation. Leon, in his spare time, being such a little boy, was going to have charge of the lemonade table, while Rose was to look after the grab-bags. Rose was going to dress like a gypsy, while Leon was to wear neat little trousers, coat and hat. You can of course readily see that the topic of a church fair was quite the only topic of discussion in that home during those two days. But finally the great day came. "Oh, you look just like a gypsy," cried Leon as Rose came into the room. And she did indeed. Her little red and yellow dress with its spangled trimmings was gay to see. "And you look as fresh as a snowflake," shouted Rose as she donned her coat and hat. Even Leon's shoes were white. Then away they went to the hall where the fair was to be held. Are you little folks old enough to

To those who have not yet been to a church fair we must of course give you some idea of how the great hall looked.

As Leon and Rose entered the hall they gazed with astonishment. It seemed as if the covers of a fairy book had suddenly opened before them revealing a wonderful fairland of color and brilliancy. And up on the stage there was a real windmill and its wings swung lazily around just as they would in the open air. Leon wondered at first how the sails could go without any wind and how he laughed a few moments later when he found a little friend of his inside turning a crank which made the wings go round. After hunting among the countless booths that lined either side of the hall the children found both the lemonade stand and the grab-bag booth and then the first fair-goers began to arrive. By the middle of the afternoon the great hall was thronged with hundreds of people and Leon and Rose did a tremendous business. It seemed as if almost everybody in the hall wanted a grab and a drink of lemonade. If you little folks ever get the chance to go to a church fair just go. It is a whole lot of fun.

Miss Willis—I'm writing to Mr. Rocks, the gentleman I met in Florida last fall. I drop him a line occasionally, you know. Miss Cutting—Don't be discouraged, dear. You may land him some day.

Betty has grown tired of Teddy Henry, so now her governess is quite in the fashion. Make your advertising a steady diet and not a banquet.

Storn Father—I tell you, Marla, I'm tired of seeing that young man coming here two or three evenings a week. I shall have to sit on him. Marla—I wouldn't, dad. It would be no use. I've done it myself several times, and I think he rather likes it.

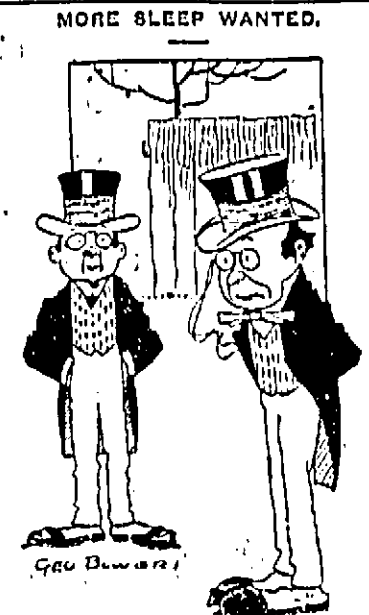

"I never," he said, "permitted myself to be disturbed over trifles. There are so many big things to engage one's attention that I consider it foolish to let the little ones bother me. Think how many people permit themselves to go all to pieces every time any little thing happens to fall in their way. They are the ones who make this world a dismal place. If every one would learn to pass over the little troubles—to ignore them—how much more good cheer there would be. It is a sign of a small nature to let a little thing distress one to—wow! Oh, Lord! Oh! Oh! Blank, blank, blank, blank!—!! I've got a speck in my eye! Oh, Lord! It's killing me!"

Very Considerate. "I suppose, Jennie, you wouldn't want to go to the concert Wednesday in your old hat?" "You dear thing—I couldn't possibly think of showing myself in it." "That's what I thought, so I—"

"What?" "Bought only one ticket to the concert."—Megendorfer Blatter.

Make your advertising a steady diet and not a banquet.

THE DEACON—Pardon, I wish you could make your sermons a little longer. THE PREACHER (pleased)—Why not? THE DEACON—Well, it seems like I hardly got to sleep before it's time to get up.

Splasher—Now, take this picture to the exhibition gallery, but be careful, for the paint isn't dry yet. Servant—Oh, that's all right; I'll put on my old coat.

"Do you go to the theater very much?" "No, I'm rather fond of acting."

MORE SLEEP WANTED. NEPENTHE. When sorrow gloom and trouble's grip Philosophers cling to the pipe. They strike a light and hold their feet And puff and puff till joy complete. Both make amends for fell mishap, Plans gone astray, misfortune's rap. And while the smoke wreaths lightly curl, The bachelors dream of a girl. The married wights dream of the day When they were free and wondrous gay. Thenceforth Nicotia's soothing charm Contrives a cheerless world to warm And brings a measure of content To chaps who can not raise the rent. Yet, seldom frown, as long as they Can fill a pipe and puff away.

The Faithful Nurse. "Is this you, doctor?" asks the nurse, over the telephone. "Yes," answers the physician. "Well, you know you said Mr. Bonder would not show any signs of improvement for five or six days?" "Yes." "Well, this is only the second day and he is a great deal better already. Shall I give him something to make him worse for the other three or four days?"—Life.

THE GREAT HEREAFTER

By PASTOR RUSSELL
of Brooklyn, Tennessee

TEXT—It shall come to pass in the last days that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow into it—Isaiah 11:9.

Our text has not yet been fulfilled, but we believe the beginning of its fulfillment to be near. It pictures Messiah's kingdom, for which Christian people have long been waiting and praying. "Thy kingdom come; they will be done on earth as it is in heaven"—the same kingdom for which the Jews so long waited and are still waiting. Our text relates not to the spiritual part of the kingdom, which the Gospel church is called to share, but to the earthly part of the kingdom, which belongs to the natural seed of Abraham. A great mistake has been made by many of us in the past, in that we have not discerned and acknowledged the two Israel, spiritual and natural, and the separate rewards and blessings apportioned to these by the Divine promises of the Scriptures. Both are to be used of God in fulfilling the promise made to Abraham—in blessing all the families of the earth.

After the completion of Messiah, Head and Members, on the plane of glory, the New Covenant will be inaugurated with Israel, as the Scriptures distinctly teach (Jeremiah xxxi. 31-34). Our text, therefore, waits for its accomplishment until the last member of the elect Church of Christ shall have passed beyond the veil.

In the symbolic language of the Scriptures a mountain is always symbolic of a kingdom. Hence the mountain of the Lord's house means the kingdom of God and that royal house or family recognized by him. For instance, we read that David sat upon the throne of the kingdom of the Lord and that God made a covenant with him, "even the sure mercies of David"—viz., that none but his seed, his posterity, would ever be recognized as the Divinely appointed representatives of God in kingly authority and power. In other words, Messiah was to be the offspring of David, the great antitypical David (Delovred), who must "reign from sea to sea and from the river to the ends of the earth."

The Messiah-King on the spirit plane, the Son of God (and also God invisible to men, as are also the angels), is the antitypical David and the antitypical Solomon, the wise, the great, the rich. In the days of his flesh our Lord was the Son of David according to the flesh, though begotten of a divine life not tainted by any human imperfection. He was, therefore, holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners. His faithfulness to the will of the Father made him subject to all of the experiences of suffering and death, as expressed in his own words. The cup which my Father has poured for me, shall I refuse to drink it? His obedience unto death, even the death of the cross, demonstrating his loyalty to the last degree and he received the high reward appropriated. "Him hath God also highly exalted and given a name that is above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, both of things in heaven and of things in earth."

We have before our minds the antitypical house of David, Messiah's kingly household, the royal priesthood divinely prepared. As a kingdom it will be at the top, above all the kingdoms of earth. Not only will this be true of the spiritual kingdom (invisible to man as the angels are invisible), but it will include also an earthly kingdom, composed of "Israelites indeed." At their head as princes in all the earth will stand the resurrected Ancient Worthies, perfected as men and samples of all mankind, by obedience to the laws of the kingdom, may attain to, with eternal life. These Ancient Worthies are enumerated in the Scriptures—Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the prophets, etc., and described by St. Paul in Hebrews 11:38-40. To these belong the earthly promises of the Old Testament. They never heard of the heavenly or spiritual promises. Their loyalty will find its reward in the fact that they will come forth from the tomb no longer blemished and imperfect, but fully, completely restored to the perfection originally enjoyed by father Adam. Additionally these will have the special guidance and instruction of Messiah (Head and members) in all the affairs of mankind. Thus as the Master said, speaking of that time, "Ye shall see Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and the prophets in the kingdom (Luke 13:28).

God's kingdom will be represented in the earth by Isaac, especially by these faithful men of Israel, resurrected perfect, who will be the special appointees and representatives of the glorified Messiah's rule.

Humanity for 6,000 years has been learning "the exceeding sinfulness of sin," its downward tendency in every sense of the word.

As a consequence, the world is losing confidence in itself. All, whether politicians or judges or governors, great or small, or one party or another, of one nationality or another—all are accused of being tarred with the same stick of selfishness. "The Bible clearly indicates that this distrust is not without reason, and that the great time of trouble to come upon every nation (Daniel 12:1) will be the direct result of this loss of confidence.

Kept Busy.
"Have you ever wondered about your husband's past?"
"Dear me, no; I have all I can do in taking care of his present and worrying about his future."—Judge.

RAIL HEAD GOES MAD

DICKINSON MACALLISTER IS VIOLENT ON TRAIN.

Becomes Violently Insane—Kicks Out Car Windows and Attempts to Leap Out.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 30.—Dickinson MacAllister of Harrisburg, Pa., went mad on a Pullman car on Panhandle train No. 10.

The man was taken from the lavatory where he had locked himself in and had smashed the windows ready to jump out.

MacAllister, who is said to be a high official with the Chicago Terminal Railway company, left Chicago for his home in Harrisburg. He was accompanied by two friends, J. M. Jordan and John C. Hays of Chicago, and occupied a drawing room about the train. Somewhere between Columbus and Donelson, O., MacAllister grew violently insane and kicked out the lights in the drawing room leaving the compartment in darkness.

He made a rush for the windows in the car, and before he could be prevented, he is said to have kicked out two of them. When his companions attempted to calm him, MacAllister took refuge in the lavatory where he barred the door. Here he remained, and all the efforts of the Pullman conductor and the man's two friends, failed to dislodge him from his quarters.

When the train arrived at the Union station police officers were obliged to force their way into the small compartment. Here they discovered that MacAllister had the window opened as though about to leap out.

Washington, March 30.—After a conference of two days with the currency commission of the American Bankers' association, the monetary commission adjourned to meet at the call of Chairman Aldrich.

The conference has been devoted to a general analysis of the Aldrich currency bill. In the main the provisions of the plan outlined by Mr. Aldrich have been found to be acceptable to the bankers, but they have suggested minor changes in phraseology in other portions of the measure, and considerable attention has been given to a few of the features of the bill.

The plans of the commission embrace an active campaign for the summer, with the view of having the measure completed by the beginning of the first regular session of the sixty-second congress on the first Monday of next December.

SCIENTIST TO REGULATE MAN'S STATURE.
Diagrammatic Picture of the Pituitary Gland, Which is Now Said to Control the Growth of the Body.

Chicago, Ill.—Anyone who wishes to regulate his natural altitude above sea level needs only to have his pituitary gland attended to. At least, that is what Prof. Arthur Keith of London says, and his statements were corroborated yesterday by a number of Chicago's foremost physicians.

The pituitary gland is the first in importance of the principal ductless glands of the body, which include the thyroid and adrenals glands, and a portion of the pancreas. It is a small, vascular body, reddish gray in color, and weighing about 1/10 of a gram. It is located at the center of the sphenoid, "butterfly" bone, at the anterior base of the skull, and is contained in the pituitary fossa, a hollow big enough to contain only the tip of the little finger.

The juices secreted by this gland, according to Chicago physicians, largely control the growth of the bones of the body. When the secretion is plentiful the bones grow to an abnormal size, but when it is comparatively small in quantity the growth of the bones is retarded. In large persons the pituitary gland is found to be healthy, but in persons small in stature it is in a number of cases discovered to be diseased. It is by regulation of the secretion that physicians hope to be able to make small persons taller, and to control the growth of persons who show signs of becoming giants.

When the secretion is caused to flow freely, say physicians, a rapid development of the bones is the result. Thus, when a boy or a girl is ill for some time with a fever, the diseased condition of the body causes the pituitary gland, to become unusually active, with the result that the sick person "grows like a weed."

On the other hand, growth may be materially stopped by the removal of the gland. This is a remarkably delicate operation and requires the skill of a well trained surgeon. It is performed through the nose, the instrument used being placed in the nasal cavity and the front part of the pituitary fossa being chiseled until an opening is made. Then a portion of the gland is scraped out.

In his treatise on the subject, Prof. Keith declared that the size of the various bones might be regulated independently of each other. In this way a defective limb might be made to grow longer or other bones made to correspond with the size of the body. "I believe that this is rather a fanciful interpretation, however," said Prof. Albert P. Matthews, head of the physiological department of the University of Chicago. "I think there is a relation between the pituitary gland and the growth of the body, however, and science may be able to regulate human growth within the near future."

WILL LABOR STRIKE MARK APRIL FIRST?

Usual Rumors of Labor Unrest Abroad.—Painters For Higher Wage. Masons For Shorter Day.

There has been a persistent rumor for the past few days that a combined walk-out, including the painters, masons, carpenters and plumbers was scheduled to occur in this city, April 1st. A demand on the part of the painter's union for a raise in the minimum wage and a long standing demand from the masons for an eight hour day are the features of the rumored strike.

If such a walk-out is contemplated on the part of the various tradesmen in the city, no notification has been received by the several contractors and employers of any move of this sort here. Through the secretary of the union, the painters have made a demand on the employers for a raise of two and one-half cents in the minimum wage per hour, that is to say the whole scale of painters wages will be elevated, commensurate with the ability of the worker, to a higher rate. It is understood that the employers in the city will not concede to any such request as the promise of work for the coming season is of not enough importance to warrant giving in to the demand of the union men. The present minimum wage paid per hour to painters is thirty cents and the demand for 32 and one-half. This would make a good man worth about forty-five cents an hour.

The plumbers from the standpoint of the employer are in no state of visible agitation and as yet no demands have been made upon them. The same condition prevails with this business as in the case of the painters, namely that no word has been received by the employers as to any combined strike to take effect in the near future.

It is natural that some such rumors should start at this time of the year, when new contracts for work are being made and jobs are being placed for by the different trades, but in the face of the demands made last spring at this time and the fact that the standing demand of the masons for an eight hour day is still an open question as to just what action will be taken by the trades. Among the contractors everything is quiet and there has been no sign of trouble. They are taking on the usual amount of spring work with no fear of labor troubles. This would seem to quiet any reports as to unrest among the carpenters and masons.

MUCH INTEREST IN ENGLISH REGATTA

Oxford and Cambridge Crews Completing Training for Annual Race on Thames River Saturday.

London, March 30.—Both the Oxford and Cambridge crews have practically finished their training for the great annual boat race, which is to be rowed Saturday over the usual course from Mortlake to Putney. Public interest in the great aquatic event is unusually keen this year. For weeks the papers have devoted columns to the daily work of the two crews, while this week the Thames has been lined with spectators to witness the practice regatta and to form opinions as to the condition of the contestants.

It seems to be the general opinion that there will be a grand struggle, which is due largely to the fact that they got into shape earlier in the season and have steadily improved in form and speed. Like all crews stroked by Mr. Bourne the Oxonians have a steady swing and nice rhythm.

In their early practice work the Cambridge men were unlucky in losing the services of their second cox, in the home waters the crew showed a slower stroke than was desirable, but since they appeared at Putney there has been a steady improvement and it is now contended that every man in the crew is a good worker and that there is not weak spot in the boat. The members of the crew are, for the most part a very powerful and heavy set of men and many experts incline to the opinion that Cambridge will quietly wear down the rival crew in the latter part of the race.

This will be the sixty-eighth race between the two universities. Oxford has been the winner in thirty-six contests and Cambridge in thirty, while the one of 1877 resulted in a dead heat. The best time over the four-mile course, 19m. 47s., was first made by Oxford in 1893 and equalled by Cambridge in 1900.

The Cardinals are of the opinion they can beat the first year men and will attempt to do so tomorrow evening. O'Connell of Madison, who starred in the game against the Ravenswood Y. M. C. A. last Saturday, will play with the Lakotas tomorrow night.

Daniel Webster's father meant him for a farmer. Taking him out in the hay field, Daniel just thumbed with his scythe—it hung too far out, it hung too far in, and no matter how the father fixed the scythe, it did not hang to the father's belief; "Daniel, get out of this field and hang the scythe to suit yourself," Daniel hung it on a tree, with the remark: "There it hangs to suit me."

Spectacular Fire.

The most spectacular fire ever witnessed in the oil industry was at one of the Dos Boens wells in Mexico. About 60,000 barrels of oil was burned up daily for nearly two months. The flames rose to heights of 800 to 1,100 feet.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

Another clean case of sending away for goods against buying at home. A local country farmer knew that Madison boys carried bushels of seed potatoes at $1.97, pays the freight on them to Janesville, which costs 8c per bushel, making a total cost per bushel of $1.15 laid down in Janesville.

There at least five dealers in seed potatoes in Janesville that are offering as the seed as was grown last year any where, at $1.10 per bushel, and no doubt in quantities of thirty bushels they would gladly make the price an even dollar a bushel.

This is a fair illustration of what is gained by sending out of town for merchandise. This party that sent out for seed for his potatoes could have saved just $4.50 by buying at home.

Sun Cooking.

A German, Baron Teherhausen, was the first sun cook. He began in 1687 to boil water, and in 1688 he had very good success in boiling eggs. Sir John Herschel and Ruffon are other famous names associated with sun cooking. Sun cooking—roasting or boiling by sunlight instead of coal or gas—has been going on for three hundred years. There are sun stoves that roast a chicken or boil a soup to perfection. They are only used, however, by scientists.

Devil Fishing of Great Size.

Devil fish weighing up to 200 pounds are sometimes caught in Japan. These fish are amphibious; they are often seen wobbling on their tentacles like giant spiders in search of patches of sweet potatoes. The natives kill them with clubs. In the water they are caught in jars lowered to the bottom, which the octopus enters thinking them a good retreat from which to catch its food.

The BRONZE BELL

BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE
AUTHOR OF "THE BRASS BOWL" ETC.
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

The intelligent daimy showed him a night of stairs, leading up to darkness. With a drumming heart he began to ascend, counting 21 steps as his feet fell on each. Then, dropping again, one hand encountered a balustrade; with this for guide he turned and followed it until it began to ascend upwards. This time he counted 16 steps before his eyes, rising above the level of the upper floor, disclosed to him a thin line of light, bright along the threshold of a door. He began to breathe more freely, yet apprehension kept him strung up to a high tension of nerves.

He knuckled the door loudly—one double knock followed by another. From within a voice called cheerfully, in English: "Come in."

He fumbled for the knob, found and turned it, and entered a small, low-ceilinged chamber, very cozy with lamp-light, and simply furnished with a single chair, a chapeau, a water-jug, a large mirror, and beneath the latter a dressing-table littered with a collection of toilet gear, cosmetics and bottles, which would have done credit to an actress.

There was but a single person in the room and he occupied the chair before the dressing table. As Amber came in, he rose; a middle-aged man in a suit of pink satin, very dirty. In one hand something caught the light, glittering.

"Oh, Mister Amber, I believe," he murmured, "I believe," "Believe me, most charmed to make acquaintance," and he laughed agreeably.

But Amber's face had darkened. With an oath he sprang back, threw his weight against the door, and with his left hand shot the bolt, while his right whipped from his pocket Rutton's automatic pistol.

"Drop that gun, you monkey!" he cried, sharply. "I was afraid of this, but I think you and I'll have an accounting before any one else gets in here."

CHAPTER IX.

Pink Satin.

Shaking with rage, Amber stood for a long moment with pistol poised and eyes wary; then, bewildered, he slowly lowered the weapon. "Well," he observed, reflectively, "I'm damned." For the glittering thing he had mistaken for a revolver lay on his feet; and it was nothing more nor less than a sheath. While as for the babu, he had dropped back into the chair and given way to a rude but reassuring paroxysm of gusty, silent laughter.

Stood for a Long Moment With Pistol Poised and Eyes Wary.

"I'm a fool," said Amber; "and if I'm not mistaken, you're Labertouche."

With a struggle the babu recovered his emotion. "I am, my dear fellow," he gasped. "And I owe you an apology. Upon my word, I'd forgotten; one grows so accustomed to living the parts in these masquerades, after a time, that one forgets. Forgive me." He offered a hand which Amber grasped warmly in his untarnished palm. "I'm really delighted to meet you," continued Labertouche, seriously. "Any man who knows India can't help being glad to meet the author of 'The Peoples of the Hindu Kush.'"

"You did frighten me," Amber confessed, smiling. "I didn't know what to expect—or suspect. Certainly,"—with a glance round the incongruously furnished room—"I never looked forward to anything like this—or you, in that get-up."

"You wouldn't, you know," Labertouche admitted, gravely. "I might have warned you in my note; but that was a risky thing, at best. I feared to go into detail—it might have fallen into the wrong hands."

"Whose?" demanded Amber.

"That, my dear man, is what we're here to find out—if we can. But all down; we shall have to have quite a bit of talk." He scraped a heap of brightly-colored native garments out of one end of the chapeau and motioned Amber to the chair. At the same time he fished a cigar-case out of some recess of his cigar-case. "These are good," he remarked, opening the case and offering it to Amber; "I don't smoke anything half so good when at work. The native tobacco is abominable, you know—quite three-fourths filth."

"At work?" questioned Amber, clipping the end of his cigar and lighting it. "You don't mean to say you travel around in these clothes?"

"But I do. It's business with me—though few people know it. Quaint didn't; only I had a chance, one day, to tell him some rather startling facts about native life. This sort of thing, done properly, gives a man insight into a lot of unusual things."

Labertouche puffed his cigar into a long and leant back, clasping one knee with two brown hands and squinting up at the low, discolored ceiling. And Amber, looking him over, was amazed by the absolute fidelity of his make-up; the brownish stain on face and hands, the high-cut patent leather boots, the open-work shoes through which his tinted calves showed grossly, his shapless, baggy, soiled garments—all were hopelessly babush.

"And if it isn't done properly?" "Oh, then—!" Labertouche laughed, lifting his shoulders expressively. "No Englishman incapable of living up to the disguise has ever tried it more than once in India; few, very few, have lived to tell of the experience."

"You're connected with the police?" Amber's brows contracted as he remembered Rutton's emphatic prohibition.

But Quain had not failed to mention that. "Officially, no," said Labertouche readily. "Now and again, of course, I run across a bit of valuable information; and then, somehow, indirectly, the police get wind of it. But this going fantoos in an amateur way is simply my hobby; I've been at it for years—and very successfully, too. Of course, it'll have its end. One's bound to slip up eventually. You can train yourself to live the life of the native, but you can't train your mind to think as he thinks. Some day the mistakes happen. Some day . . . He sighed, not in the least unhappily. "Some day I'll dodge into this hole, or another that I know of, but on somebody else's rug—say, these I'm wearing—and inconspicuously become a mysterious disappearance. That's how it is with all of us who go in for this sort of thing. But it's like opium, you know; you try it the first time for the lack of it; the end is tragedy."

Amber drew a long breath, his eyes glittering with wonder and admiration of the man. "You don't mean to tell me you run such risks for the pure love of it?"

"Well . . . perhaps not altogether. But we needn't go into details, need we?" Labertouche's smile robbed the rebuke of its sting. "The opium simile is a very good one, though I say it who shouldn't. One acquires a taste for the shabden, and one hires a little room like this from an unprincipled blackguard like Honest George, and inasmuch as one goes deeper and deeper until one gets beyond one's depth. That's all. It explains me sufficiently. And," he chuckled, "you'd never have known it if your case hadn't been exceptional."

"It is, I think," Amber's expression became anxious. "I want to know what you think of it—now Quain's told you. And, I say, what did you mean by 'news of the Far East'?" "News of the Far East?" Labertouche's eyes twinkled. "But how in the name of all that's strange!"

"Did I connect Rutton with the Far East?" Amber asked, by simple inference. "You were charged with a secret errand, demanding the utmost haste, by Rutton; your first thought was to travel by the longer route—what is it, happens, Miss Farrell had started upon a little while before. You had recently met her, and I've heard she's rather a striking young woman. You see?"

"Yes," admitted Amber, sheepishly. "But—"

"And then I remembered something," interrupted Labertouche. "I recall Rutton. I knew him years ago, when he was a young man. . . . You know the yarn about him?"

"A little—mighty little. I know now that he was a Rajput—though he never told me that; I know that he married a Russian noblewoman—that he resented her infidelity—'Amber hesitated imperceptibly—'that he died soon after, that he chose to live out of India and to die rather than return to it.'"

"He was," said Labertouche, "a singular man, an exotic result of the unnatural conditions we English have brought about in India. This word ronegado describes him aptly, I think; he was born and bred a Brahmin, a Rajput, of the hottest and bluest blood in Rajputana; he died to all intents and purposes a European—with an English heart. He is—was—by rights Maharajah of Khondawar. As the young maharajah was sent to England to be educated, I'm told his record at Oxford was a brilliant one. He became a convert to Christianity—that was predestined to Christianity—to the Church of England, a convert. When his father died and he came to the throne, he was summoned to take his place, Rutton at first refused. Pressure was brought to bear upon him by the English government and he returned, was enthroned, and for a little time ruled Khondawar. It was then that I knew him. He was continually dissatisfied, however, and after a year or two disappeared. It was rumored that he'd struck a bargain with his prime minister, one Sallu Singh. At all events Sallu Singh contrived to usurp the throne, government offering no objection. Rutton turned up eventually in Russia, and married a woman, there who died in childbirth—twenty years ago, perhaps. The child did not survive its mother. . . . Labertouche paused deliberately, his glance searching Amber's face. "So the report ran, at least," he concluded, quietly.

"How do you know all this?" Amber countered, evasively.

"Government watches its wards very tenderly," said Labertouche with a grin. "Besides, India's a great place for gossip. . . . And then," he pursued, tactlessly. "I remembered something else. I recalled that Rutton had one very close friend, an Englishman named Farrell—"

"Oh, what's the use?" Amber cut in nervously. "You understand the situation too well. It's no good my trying to keep anything from you."

"Such as the fact that Colonel Farrell adopted Rutton's daughter, who, as it happens, did survive her mother. Yes; I knew that—or, rather, part I knew and part I guessed. But don't worry, Mr. Amber; I'll keep the secret."

"For the girl's sake," said Amber, twining his hands together.

"For her sake, I pledge my word." "Thank you."

"And now . . . for what purpose did Rutton ask you to come to India? Wasn't it to get Miss Farrell out of the country?"

"I think you're the devil himself," said Amber.

"I'm not," confessed Labertouche; "but I am a member of the Indian secret service—not officially connected with the police, observe!—and I know a deal that you don't. I think, in short, I can place my finger on the reason why Rutton was so concerned to get his daughter out of the country."

"Amber looked his question.

"You read the papers, don't you, in America?"

"Rather," Amber smiled. "You've surely not been so blind as to miss the occasional reports that leak out about native unrest in India?"

"Surely you don't mean—"

"I assuredly do mean that the Second Mutiny impends," declared Labertouche, solemnly. "Such, at the best, is my belief, and such is the belief of every thinking man in India who is at all informed. The entire country is undermined with conspiracy and sedition; day after day a vast, silent, underground movement goes on, fomenting rebellion against the English rule. The worst of it is, there's no stopping it, no way of scotchling the serpent; its heads are myriad, seemingly. And yet—I don't know—since yesterday I have hoped that through you we might eventually strike to the heart of the movement."

"Through me?" cried Amber, startled.

Labertouche nodded. "Just so. The information you have already brought us is invaluable. Have you thought of the significance of Chatterji's Message of the Bell?"

"Even now," Amber quoted mechanically, "The Gateway of Swords yawns wide, that he who is without fear may pass within; to the end that the body be purged of the Scarlet Evil." "It shook his head mystified. "No," he said, "I don't understand."

"It's so simple," urged Labertouche; "all but the Gateway of Swords; I don't place that yet. . . . But the 'body'—plainly that is India; the 'Scarlet Evil'—could anything more fittingly describe English rule from the native point of view?"

Amber felt of his head solitously. "And yet," he averred reluctantly, "it doesn't feel like would."

PREDICTING WEATHER.

How do they do it—these forecasters and weather men? And why cannot we do it too? Within limits we can, though we have not the advantages of the instruments and elaborate system in use by the government.

The clouds are great weather indicators. If we know how to interpret their appearance and movements, the invisible moisture always contained in the air becomes visible clouds when cooled, and "condensing up" often indicates coming rain.

In our own locality, especially, if the country be open to the winds, he can easily determine, after some months of watchfulness, what kind of winds bring good and what bad weather. But he should also take notice of the time of year, as winds behave differently in different seasons.

The following hints are useful in weather forecasting, coming to us from England: Soft clouds indicate fair weather with light breezes. Hard edged, oily looking clouds mean wind.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much of our good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—child-like, even. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat trouble, etc.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 15 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a pint bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two, or three hours.

Pinex is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this form.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the Pinex has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will tell you for it. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Happy, Happy. Use TIZ

A Marvel For Sore Feet. Acts Right Off.

Sore Feet? Never After Using TIZ—Goady's sore feet, itching feet, swollen feet, sore feet, anything else, tired feet, Goady's cure, callouses and bunions and raw spots.

If you have tried anything like TIZ before, you know it is different from anything ever before said.

It acts at once and makes the feet feel remarkably fresh and sore-proof. TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores, TIZ draws out all poisonous excretions which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does TIZ cleans out every pore and restores the feet—your feet.

You'll never jump again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions, and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

Dark, gloomy, little sky foretells light wind. Bright yellow sky at sunset presages wind, and pale yellow clouds mean rain. Light small clouds, driving across heavy masses, suggest both wind and rain; so also a sickly looking greenish line in the sky. Dark sky in the morning, "sailors take warning," red sky at night, "sailors' delight." Gray sky in the morning promises the weather.

Excusable Resentment.

"It's really provoking," said the fond mother, "baby always cries when we have company." "Well," answered Mr. Granger, "you can't blame children for disliking company. If it weren't for visitors they wouldn't have to rectify or play pieces on the piano."

Effect of Envy.

If envy, like anger, did not burn itself in its own fire, and consume and destroy those persons it possesses before it destroys those it wishes worst to, it would eat the whole world on fire, and leave the most excellent persons the most miserable.—Lord Clarendon.

You Will Be Proud of the appearance of your stove

It makes old stoves look like new and lasts four times as long as any other shine. Don't imagine all brands of stove polish are alike. Black Silk is different. It's so much better than other stove polishes that there is absolutely no comparison. It's in a class all by itself.

It makes a brilliant, glossy shine that appeals to the eye—don't rub or dust off. Give it a trial. Try it on your parlor stove—your cook stove or your gas range. If you do not find it the best stove polish you ever used, your dealer is authorized to refund your money.

Here is what some of the ladies write on their Black Silk Stove Polish bottles: "I have used Black Silk Stove Polish better than any I have ever used. People say, 'where did you get your new stove?' and I tell them it's a Black Silk Stove Polish that makes it look like new." "I will not use any other kind when I can get Black Silk Stove Polish. It makes stoves look newer and stays longer than any other polish." "Black Silk Stove Polish is by far the best I ever used. I have tried many different kinds but find none as good." "Like Black Silk Stove Polish better than any I ever used. Several parties in this neighborhood are anxious to get some of your polish since they saw my stove after using it."

FRECKLES GONE

"Simple Remedy from Badger Drug Co. Removed Them," Says Society Lady.

"The best skin specialists told me that nothing would remove my freckles and that I would have to try them to my own ruin." I was well known society woman, but I looked them all with a new drug—double strength, that I bought at The Badger Drug Co. which cleared my skin and gave me a fine complexion."

The action of ointment is really remarkable for when applied at night, the majority of freckles disappear entirely by morning, and the rest have begun to fade. An ointment is usually all that is needed even for the worst case.

Write to ask The Badger Drug Co. for the double strength ointment, as this is sold under a guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.

THIN NERVOUS CHILDREN

Often even the doctor doesn't seem able to tell what is the matter with a rapidly growing, thin, nervous, fretful child. Some noted specialists even recommend keeping them quiet in bed several hours every day.

But that sort of thing is just what an active child can't bear. Our own experience is that such children begin to thrive and put on flesh almost as soon as they begin taking Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, that children love to take. It is quite harmless and does them a world of good. They become ruddy and rugged, their little limbs fill out and become plump and they are soon the frolicsome youngsters they ought to be. Mrs. C. W. Stump, Canton, Ohio, says Vinol restored her sickly little daughter to health and strength. Vinol is good for delicate people of all ages and you take no risk in giving it a trial for we give back the money if it does not do us what we claim.
